

SALONIKI SEES LIVE REPRODUCTION OF AMERICAN PAINTING, "SPIRIT OF 1776"

"SPIRIT OF 1776" IN GREECE.

As the three men shown in the picture paraded the streets of Saloniki, where they were photographed, they resembled some Americanized Greeks of the American painting, "The Spirit of 1776," and the picture was dubbed.

"The Spirit of Greece in 1916." Strictly speaking, however, these men are not Greeks at all, but Macedonian Turks and wandering mendicant musicians, wandering from town to town in the disturbed country. Men such as these have caused much trouble in Saloniki and the surrounding country by their lawlessness, and their activities will probably be restricted severely when Greece begins active operations against the Bulgars and Turks.

HEAD CUT IN FALL

Found wandering in William street, near Washington park, Saturday night, with a jagged cut over his eye, James Nichols, a Stratford contractor, was taken to the emergency hospital and treated by Dr. C. C. Taylor. Nichols said he had fallen on the pavement, and in that manner suffered this injury.

The War Department ordered all the remaining Michigan State troops to the Mexican border.

OBITUARY

WALTER T. HALL
Walter T. Hall died in St. Vincent's hospital yesterday after an attack of apoplexy. Mr. Hall, who lived in Fairfield, was a baker. He was 53 years old and had never married. He was the son of Virginia and the late John C. Hall. His mother, two sisters and a brother survive him.

ALFRED M. CHURCH
Alfred M. Church of 41 Sedgwick street, died yesterday at the Bridgeport hospital after a brief illness with pneumonia. Mr. Church was born in Norwalk, 64 years ago, the son of Alfred and Abigail Church. He was a cabinet maker. He is survived by his widow and several sons and daughters. The funeral will be held from the undertaking parlors of Hawley & Wilmet.

GEORGE E. HILL
The funeral of George Edwin Hill will be held from his late home, 926 Fairfield avenue, at 2:45 tomorrow afternoon. Rev. Herbert D. Gallaudet, former pastor of the First Congregational church, will conduct the service. Members of Mr. Hill's college class, Yale, 1887, will attend, also a delegation from the State Bar association as well as numerous members from the University club, the Sea Side club, the Seaside Outing club, the Contemporary club, the Bookers club, the Yale club of New York city, and the Hill Hill Golf club of all of which organizations Mr. Hill was a member. Burial will be in Mountain Grove cemetery.

PATRICK GALVIN
The funeral of Patrick Galvin was largely attended from his late home, 174 Gregory street at 8:30 and from Sacred Heart church at 9 o'clock where Rev. Matthew Judge sang solemn high mass assisted by Rev. R. F. Moore, L. L. D., as deacon and Rev. Thomas J. Mooney as sub-deacon. The church choir sang Schmidt's requiem. At the offertory "Domine, Jesu" was sung by Miss Theresa O'Brien and William Chew. After the mass, Miss O'Brien sang "Face to Face" and as the body was being borne from the church, Miss O'Brien and Mr. Chew sang "Thy Will Be Done." Delegations were present from the Holy Name Society, the A. O. H., and the Woodmen of the World. The bearers: Michael Solan, Bartholomew Brady, Timothy Mulloy, John Allen, Lawrence Sheehan and Richard Mullen. Father Judge read the committal service at St. Michael's cemetery.

Burglars Rob Home of Chas. B. Nichols

Burglars forced an entrance to the home of C. B. Nichols, secretary and treasurer of the Connecticut Health association and the Connecticut Commercial Travelers' association, at 910 Stratford avenue, between midnight and dawn today.

The thieves ransacked the lower floor of the house while the family slumbered upstairs, escaping with $10 in bills and a bank containing silver the amount of which is not known. Valuable silver plate was left undisturbed by the burglars who confined their operations to the first floor of the home and did not venture to visit the sleeping rooms on the second floor.

It is believed that entrance to the house was gained by removing a wire screen and then forcing the window.

Joseph Gorman, of New York, was killed by a truck while riding a bicycle on Twenty-fourth street, near Ninth avenue.

Bridgeport Homes in Peril From Lack of Inspection of Wiring

Business Agent Sullivan when seen by a Farmer reporter at the union headquarters today declaring that his statements before the convention were conservative. Even worse conditions are reported to him daily, but still await his personal examination to prove them.

We have repeatedly asked this administration for an electrical inspector. The building department inspection is a joke as far as electrical wiring is concerned. The members of that board are not to blame for they have all they can do in inspecting the most dangerous features of building. "In the meantime the New England board of fire writers keep one man here to look after their interests. T. H. Broderick, but the Bridgeport board of fire underwriters has no inspector. They declare that the city should pay for such a man. While there is no adequate inspection the property owners foot the bill in increased fire rates for the insurance companies. Know the condition and charge accordingly. Broderick, whose main occupation according to other members of the fire underwriters' association here is to sign policies, rather than to personally inspect wiring and fire risks, refused to discuss the matter at all today. It is recalled that Alderman Robert N. Blakelee drafted an ordinance calling for an inspector, but the passage was killed in council.

Accused of Stealing Brass, Forfeits $100

Joseph Colock, for 35 years a trusted employee of the Bridgeport Brass Co., who was arrested Saturday, charged with the theft of 42 pounds of brass and copper from the concern, failed to appear in court this morning when his case was called and forfeited a bond of $100, by which he obtained his release from jail yesterday.

The officials of the brass works have been missing large quantities of metal. Detective Garrity and Holbrook were assigned to the case. They found Colock, outside of his home, 85 Summerfield street, Saturday talking to a Junk man.

He had in his possession a bag containing the brass and copper which he said he found. His young son, taxed by the police, admitted his father had told him to say he picked the junk in a scrap heap, but that his father brought the bag home from the brass works.

Colock is the owner of several valuable pieces of real estate in the district where he lives and was held in high esteem by his neighbors. The police were unable to find him today.

Crazed By Drink, Throws Policeman Through a Window

Crazed by liquor, James Capatin, 39 years of age, who is physique resembles a heavyweight wrestler, picked up Policeman John Kearney and threw him through a window of the Faust cafe, Saturday night. Kearney, who had been taken by surprise, went after Capatin with a vengeance, assisted by Detective J. J. Seery.

Their combined efforts succeeded in getting Capatin to police headquarters, although he contested every inch of the distance, fighting with both feet and hands. In court this morning he claimed that he could not remember anything that had occurred. Judge Bartlett fined him a total of $15 and costs, for resisting and officer and drunkenness. He paid.

Soft woollens for warm coats.

Rich new coating woollens have a soft smooth surface that gives promise of true warmth.

Nine of ten folks who viewed them hurriedly would decide that they were too smooth and soft and fine to give much wear. Yet they are firm and staunch and may be counted on for full service.

The heaviest are not really heavy. But they are of splendid wool; their warmth-insuring quality is certain. Zibelines, almost furry in effect, 54 inches wide, —$2.25 yd.

Wool velour, subdued of effect, handsome, rich in colors, 54 inches wide, —$2.25 yd.

Handsome and quiet plaids, of fine quality, —$2.50 yd. Chinchilla, close of texture and notably warm, —54 inches wide, —$3 yd.

Checked velour and checked zibelina, effective in style and to be made up into coats of smart air, —$3 yd.

For evening coats—fine wool velour in lavender and orange and light tints of blue and gray, beautiful, —$3 yd.

RILING—HANNIGAN

Miss Katherine Hannigan of 233 Olive street and Mr. Otto A. Riling of 1074 State street were married at 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning by Rev. James Nihil of St. Augustine's church. Miss Hannigan was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Hannigan and the groom by his brother, Faye Riling. When they return from their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Riling will be at home to their friends at 233 Olive street.

The British authorities have confiscated the mail on the Scandinavian-American liner Hellig Olav, bound for New York.

Fingerprint in Paint May Have Been Left By Burglar at Riker's

The clear imprint of a man's finger, close to a window at the home of Andrew L. Riker, which was robbed of $1,500 worth of jewelry, last week, may lead to the identification and arrest of at least one of the burglars.

Lieut. Edward O. Cronan, who has assigned Detective James Dooley to the case, has Sergeant George Haus, the Bertillon expert of this city, photograph the imprint and it has been sent to the Bertillon headquarters at Washington, D. C., where the finger prints of the nation's criminals are kept on file for identification.

There is a probability the finger print was made by one of the painters who worked about the house the day of the robbery.

SUES TO RECOVER ON NOTE.

William Hickman of this city has brought in the common pleas court against M. D. Heldt, William Koenig and M. Koenig of this city to recover $300 damages. He claims Heldt gave a note for $125 and did not pay when it fell due. The other defendants endorsed the note. The suit is returnable to the October term.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Alfred P. Sewell, aged 36, an insurance agent of Cynwood, Pa., and Georgia Emily Whitaker, aged 30, of Phoenixville, Pa. have made application in this city for a marriage license. A license was granted this morning to Edward Egan, aged 25, a tool-maker of 934 Hancock avenue and Beale Balogh, aged 19, of the same address. The latter has her parent's consent.

An Eye to Business.

Customer—I've called about the cough mixture I bought. The first dose cured me. Chemist—The instantaneous effect of that preparation, sir, has been remarked by everybody. Customer—It's amazing, and as there's only one dose gone, I thought perhaps you'd change what was left for some photographic plates.—London Punch.

Works of Art.

"Where did you get this wonderful follow up system? It would get money out of anybody."

"I simply compiled and adapted the letters my son sent me from college."—Pittsburgh Post.

Not Harmonizing.

Bridgeport, Conn., Monday, Oct. 2.

Weather: Fair tonight and Tuesday; warmer Tuesday.

Let's knit sweaters and hug-me-tights!

Fine chance is now offered to learn how to knit sweater or hug-me-tight, to knit afghan, to crochet or knit scarf—and with not a penny to be paid for teaching!

We'll not call the chance a school. That's too formal. Instead, we are holding a series of meetings, little cosy affairs, at which Mrs. Freyer who is an expert and teacher too, shows women how to make warm and handsome articles from soft woolen yarns.

She knows the new styles and patterns. She knows the effective stitches. And she knows how to teach women to use those stitches with skill.

There is no charge for her help. All that's necessary is to buy here the yarn needed for making whatever article is to be made.

We've had these meetings before. A great many people have attended them. It is wise to make your plans early.

First Wireless Distress Call.

The first case on record of "wireless" being employed by a ship in distress occurred on March 3, 1899. On this date the R. F. Matthews ran into the East Goodwin lightship during a heavy fog. The weather conditions would, in the old days, have rendered the work of rescue very difficult, if not impossible. But the R. F. Matthews was equipped with what was then a novelty—Marconi's system of wireless telegraphy. Messages were sent ashore and speedily brought lifeboats to the rescue.—London Globe.

The Swedish Almanac.

The Swedish name almanac differs from English almanacs in giving, besides the usual information, a Christian name for each sex for every day of the year. The names set forth have to receive the approval of the king. The object aimed at is to secure a greater choice of names for parents and to avoid the endless repetition of a dozen or so names. A similar name almanac is issued under royal authority in one of the German states.—London Graphic.

Trousers in England.

Strange though it may appear to the present generation, it seems that trousers when first introduced into England were regarded as anything but a mark of respectability. In the original trust deed, drawn up in 1820, of Bethel chapel, Cambridge street, Sheffield, there was a clause containing the following prohibition: "Under no circumstances whatever shall any preacher be allowed to occupy the pulpit who wears trousers." It is scarcely necessary to add that knee breeches and gaiters were then the correct attire.

The Fleur-de-lis.

The fleur-de-lis, the well known emblem of France, is said to have been brought from heaven by an angel to King Clovis, he having made a vow that if he proved victorious in an impending battle with the Alemanni near Cologne he would embrace Christianity. It was the national emblem until the revolution of 1789, when the tricolor (white, red and blue) was adopted. The royalists later tried to restore the old emblem to the flag, but without success.—New York American.

Jackie's Joke.

Jackie—Come, Norah, and play with us. We're playing soldiers.
Norah (sharply)—G'wan, now, and don't be botherin' me. I ain't no soldier. Jackie—No, but you're a red cross nurse.—Boston Transcript.
